

Adoption Assistance

Background Notes

In order to achieve permanency for children, the federal government created a program in 1980, through Public Law 96-272, to remove financial barriers to adoption. This program had the goal of ensuring that the families who adopt waiting children have the necessary services and financial resources to meet their children's ongoing needs. Adoption Assistance does this through providing financial subsidy and medical coverage for children until they turn 18. The adoption assistance subsidy is based on the child's need and not dependent on the family's financial status. The subsidies, and their amounts, are decided on a case-by-case basis and based on the needs of the child.

Tasks / Assignments:

- Read the rules from Division 130 regarding adoption assistance:
- Review a completed application for adoption assistance from a file selected by your supervisor. Read the child summary to see if the summary matches the request for assistance in regard to the child's needs.
- Observe a worker completing an adoption assistance application with a current prospective adoptive family who has been the foster family. Discuss with the worker any difficulties in the negotiation process.
